After Six Months on Shmutz

Disturbing new analysis of dozens of long-term shmutz users has revealed that the subjects' oral health had deteriorated and abnormal tooth growth had created a legion of addicts suffering from Snaggletooth Syndrome.

"This is a complete breakdown of the normal human tooth growth pattern," says Philip R. Pick, DMD, bicuspid specialist at the prestigious Lanyard School of Dentistry.

"I've seen this only in chimpanzees up till now", notes Dr. Pick. In "Deadly Permutations, and What You Can Do To Prevent Them", his seminal publication explaining the biological transmutations of the Outland Institute's intelligent chimps, he advises against providing shmutz to wild animals.

"Obviously, this now applies to humans", he noted in response to a Bugle request for comment. "Can you imagine a race of

When told that her husband had to work late again, that her daughter Tiffany was getting an "F" in wood shop, and that her always-hungry teenage son actually had two stomachs, Edwina Bleer dropped the phone while talking to an Internal Revenue agent, exited her house, and ran screaming down Pine Scent Lane, dodging traffic and ripping off her size 26 pantsuit.

DO NEW-AGE THERAPIES HELP? Or Are they Simply A Moneymaking Boondoggle?

By Ernbo Flemmeron

A researcher at Pottstown College has released his findings after an exhaustive three month study of two local therapy groups that share a common thread.

Both of the organizations in question are controlled by a shadowy offshore company, The Slatherly Group, that charges a sizeable monthly fee for its services, providing only token advice and facilities, yet plugs the groups extensively in underground publications such as National Informer and The Smudge Report.

Professor Manly Bland has monitored these groups and provided the Bugle with his findings.

A group of North Bergen mothers has joined an organization dedicated to resolving life conflicts that prevent them from walking and chewing bubblegum at the same time. Women Having A Traumatic Experience Visualizing External Reality, (W.H.A.T.E.V.E.R.), hosted their eighth monthly business meeting/therapy roundtable Monday night at the Quaintsville Holiday Inn Express, Professor Bland reported.

The meeting attendees had to wait in the snow outside as another therapy group, the Peacefully Integrated Narcissists Having Evil And Demonic Signs (P.I.N.H.E.A.D.S.), wrapped up their Annual Fund-raiser/Ball. The late meeting was due to a fracas on the dance floor when one member stepped on another member's foot, which resulted in a retaliatory punch to the head, upon which several of the

The immediate response was more shirts being ripped off and more fists flying than Ned Linkwelter, the hall custodian, could remember.

"Hell, we've had biker's conventions here and the Booty Boys even stayed here once, but I've never seen anyone trash this place as bad as these so-called pinheads."
