NEW NUTRITION GUIDELINES Food Groups Reclassified

By Ed Coonce Managing Editor

Ever since Ronald Reagan declared ketchup was a vegetable, the race has been on to classify new food groups for school children's lunch menus.

As secondary school districts grapple to cope with cutbacks in money for education, serious innovative solutions have been offered to close the funding gaps.

At Larson Prep in Upper Wannagansett, the typical lunch consists of ketchup, (vegetable) a twinkie, (carbohydrates), a booger or two, (protein) and three tic-tacs for dessert.

To back up their unorthodox menu, the Wannagansett Unified School Board has released a series of updated nutrition guides, and have made available a recipe book for sale and are requesting that parents submit their favorite recipes for inclusion in the new edition.

Hunka, Hunka, ...Or Not

A crowd of angry citizens picketed City Hall Wednesday, insisting that law enforcement reign in the antics and disturbing unforgettable images they have to endure daily when confronting an obviously past-his-prime Elvis.

An equally vociferous group of mostly older ladies defended their idol, saying that seeing him on the street always made their day, and if anyone messed with Elvis, there would be hell to pay.

Local Congressman Leo Pappiloma weighed in on the controversy and promised to push for House hearings on how to define obscenity. "By God, I don't know how to explain it, but I sure know obscenity when I see it", intoned Congressman Pappiloma in an address to the North Bergen Good Citizens for Decency. "And," he added, "this is definitely obscene."
